

Sheikh Nasser – an extraordinary human being. A great collector, an extraordinary human being and a man who never forgot his origins.

I like to think of him as a friend rather than the great collector that he was. He was a man of immense charm, a fantastic sense of humour and always a joy to be with. He was a character unlike any other and we always imagined him arriving at the shop, getting off his camel and behaving just as normal. Never a handshake with him, always a big hug. He will be remembered fondly by all of us.
